Joint Chinese Language Center

National Taiwan Normal University & Asia University

To help our international students bridge language barriers and meet the needs for academic studies, the Chinese Language Center (CLC) was established in 2010. The mission of CLC is to provide Chinese language courses to Asia University (AU) foreign students, exchange students and overseas Chinese students. In 2012, the CLC was merged with the Center for the Development of Language Teaching and Research (CDLTR), becoming one of the two teaching units and was renamed the Chinese Language Division. The program then continued offering a wide range of Chinese courses to both on and off-campus international students. In 2016, aware of the broadening scope of Chinese language education in the wake of Taiwan government's "New Southbound Policy," AU and China Medical University collaborated with National Taiwan Normal University, whose renowned Mandarin training center has become a brand itself, to establish the Joint Chinese Language Center, National Taiwan Normal University & China Asia Associated University. The establishment of the center marked a new development in AU, for the move not only accelerates AU's internationalizing progress but also provides a better and diversified learning environment to international students who would like to study Chinese.

Asia University Museum of Modern Art

Designed by Architect Tadao Ando, the equilateral triangle is adopted as the basic element. The exterior of this avant-garde and challenging architectural design is peaceful and pure, while the interior is precise and calm. It is the intention of Tadao Ando to allow people, art and nature to meet and have dialog here.

Asia University Hospital

The Asia University Hospital was established to embrace the school motto of “Health and Caring”, and to serve as a regular hospital for the public as well as an academic medical center to train future healthcare professionals. The goal of the hospital is to provide high-quality and patient-centered services for the general population in nearby areas and represent a unique fusion of academic practices, clinical training and hospital functions.
